DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 13, 20, 22, 23, and 29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowen, Jr. (6007911) in view of Gray (4897989).

Bowen teaches a woven panel (Abstract; fabric) comprising first and second yarns comprising foamed polymer material (Abstract; foamed; figure 1), each having a core of polymer material (foamed polymer material). While Bowen essentially teaches the invention as described, he fails to specifically teach each yarn being a plied yarn of foamed polymer material. Gray teaches that such plied yarns, as used in woven panels, are well known (Figure 1 shows structure of yarn as ply; abstract teaches use in pile fabric). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to utilize the foamed yarns of Bowen in a plied manner, in their woven fabric use, so as to provide added strength to the woven structure. Such a plied structure provides a bicomponent axial strength member, enabling each yarn to withstand more axial force, and as a result, strengthening the fabric itself. The ordinarily skilled artisan would have known this, and understood the benefits of using such a well known plied structure.

3. Claims 30 and 40-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowen in view of Gray, as applied to claims 13, 20, 22, 23, and 29 above, and further in view of Knox et al (5807794).

The combination of Bowen in view of Gray essentially teaches the invention as discussed above, including the production of a woven fabric structure, but fails to specifically teach all its possible uses. Knox teaches us that it is well known to utilize textile cords in the production of furniture comprising frames and woven panels (First three lines of Background; Column 2 line 8 for woven). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, in this instance a chair maker, to utilize the woven panel as taught by the combination in a chair, as is taught as well known by Knox, so as to provide greater strength. The panel of the combination provides greater strength and resilience against elongation. The ordinarily skilled artisan would have understood this, and known to use the panel in the furniture of Knox, so as to prevent stretching and drooping of the panel due to constant wear and elongation.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 14-19, 21, 24-28, 31-39, and 43-64 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Laureti (3353346) teaches what is well known in the foamed polymer yarn art.
